

"IROQUOIS HALL" is name of new recreation hall.

from Times Review Nov. 6, 1941.

Choosing a name for the new recreation hall in Fort Erie, was not simple, Edward W. Tyrrill secretary of the board of directors, told the Times Review to-day.

The final choice "Iroquois Recreation Hall Limited" as the name of the corporation, was a popular one and arrived at by the process of elimination.

Eliminating the names of all other public places, the committee thought of Erie, Niagara, Mississauga, Chippawa and turned them all down one by one as they were in use elsewhere. Finally the story of the Iroquois Indians, who frequented this part of the peninsula as far back as 1500, and defeated the Neutral tribe, was recalled.

That's how "Iroquois" was chosen. it will soon be a by-word with Fort Erie citizens saying, "Meet me at the Iroquois".
